At this time, Major Sylvester says, the regulating of the back system is largely influenced by "main strength and awkwardness," coupled with the moral support of lrivers who are law abiding. It is quite apparent that antiquated local laws and ractices, as well as legislation savoring of e complications. A clean, honest, rapid rvice, at moderate prices, is demanded by e public. Soliciting passengers by word action, loitering about the streets, use dilapidated and diseased cushions, un-fully contrivances, applicables. ivers who prey upon intoxicated persons d strangers, persons who make use of e license for a day-time conveyance and other at night, should be within police pedestrian has a first right to cressings against all drivers. The speed at down-en cressings should be reduced to a walk. Stands should be established at dewalk. Stands should be established at depots, steamboat wharves and public reservations, and to hotels should be extended the right to use moderate space for their own equipages calling for and delivering their patrons. Plainly painted or engraved rate signs should be visible to the passenger. Licenses should be issued to drivers of good repute and not to owners, the name and record of each driver to be kept. The right should be reserved to annul such license upon sustained complaint. Colored the right should be reserved to annul such ticense upon sustained complaint. Colored lights designating the kind of vehicle should be a requisite. All conveyances should be subject to inspection, and, if insanitary, unsafe, or unsightly, in the judgment of the back inspector, be condemned and not be permitted in public service. There should be established a reservation for public fur niture cars, express wagons and carts, sub ect to the same license regulations as it case of passenger conveyances, and scat-tered stands be avoided. Some of these changes would be in the direction of conditions which should prevail in the capital

Speaking of hand organs and street pianos, Major Sylvester says while such furisdiction upon the proprietor thereof making tender of the license fee, even should it not be accepted. This is a remarkable state of affairs, he thinks, but the legal authorities have so determined, and there are those who take advantage of the situation and maintain the machin on the annoyance of residents desirous of beace and quiet. Legislation should be had, the suggests, making it necessary that a animous consent be had from all resi-nts and property holders fronting the ace where it is proposed to locate, and om those living within two squares in direction from the proposed place lishment. The law should, he nks, also regulate the fee they are per-ted to charge in connection with their siness, as this would, in his opinion, in property owners, as are other taxes, work could, he thinks, be done much

The proposed establishment of magistrate's courts is favored by Maj. Sylvester, but he does not favor the abolition of the Police Court, which could, he thinks, be retained as an appellate tribunal.

APPEAL TO THE GOVERNOR. Citizens of Rockville Object to Removal of a Teacher.

pecial Correspondence of The Evening Star. ROCKVILLE, Md., October 28, 1899. A considerable number of the citizens of Rockville assembled in the opera house last evening for the purpose of giving an expression of disapproval of the recent action of the board of county school commissionaries in removing Miss Lucy Garrett from the position of first assistant teacher in the Rockville High School. Dr. William R. Andrews presided. Speeches were made by Dr. Andrews, Rev. S. R White, Charles W. Prettyman and George H. Lamar, and resolutions were unantmously adopted setting forth that:

"The board of county school commissioners for Montgomery county has, in an unusual and arbitrary manner, and apparently without cause or reason, removed Miss Lucy Garrett from the position of a teacher in the Rockville High School, in spite of the respectful protest and earnest appeal formally made by an overwhelming majority of the people of this community and of the paragraph of the school and and of the patrons of the school; and "By such unexplained action the commis-sioners have mutely evidenced an utter disregard of a just public sentiment, as well as of the educational interests of the community at large: Therefore

It was directed that "a committee be appointed by the president of this meeting to present the history of this case to Gov. Lowndes, by whose appointment said commissioners entity that missioners enjoy their power, and to ap peal to the governor for such satisfaction t may be within his official authority t render in the premises."

Prisoners' Aid Society.

Speaking of the organization here of the Prisoners' Aid Association, with which the police department co-operates, Maj. Sylvester says that the danger in such a field is that excessive sympathy and zeal often result in persons dangerous to society going unpunished.

Major Sylves'er declares that while policy concerns do not exist in this jurisdiction the runners and promotors from the Virginia shore visit this side of the Potomac, in the capacity of agent, to collect and pay—to collect all they can and to pay as little as possible. The law, however, has been and is being rigidly enforced, with excelent results.

As at present constituted, explains the major, the policemen's relief fund is made up of receipts from fines imposed upon members of the force for violation of the regulations, from rewards, abandoned property sales and $1 per month from each person on the monthly pay rolls, any deficiency to be supplied from fines received in the Police Court. Sooner or later, he states, legislative action will be necessary to avoid a deficiency.

Amendment Suggested.
